

PRESIDENT WILSON RETURNS

HE RECEIVES GREAT WELCOME IN NEW YORK CITY.

Delivers Speech Telling His Joy of Being Home and New Day Dawning on Earth.

President Wilson at his reception in Carnegie Hall on Monday said: "Fellow Countrymen:— "I am not going to try this afternoon to make you a real speech. I am a bit alarmed to find how many speeches I have in my system undelivered but they are all speeches that come from the mind and I want to say to you this afternoon only a few words from the heart. "You have made me deeply happy by the generous welcome you have extended to me, but I do not believe that the welcome you extend to me is half as great as that which I extend to you. Why, Jerseyman though I am, this is the first time I ever thought that Hoboken was beautiful. "I have really, though I have tried on the other side of the water to conceal it, been the most homesick man in the American expeditionary force, and it is with feelings that it would be vain for me to try to express that I find myself in this beloved country again. I do not say that because I lack in admiration of other countries. "There have been many things that softened my homesickness. One of the chief things that softened it was the very generous welcome that they extended to me as your representative on the other side of the water and it was still more softened by the pride that I had in discovering that America had at last convinced the world of her true character. "I was welcome because they had seen with their own eyes what America had done for the world. They had deemed her selfish. They had deemed her devoted to material interests. And they had seen her boys come across the water with a vision ever more beautiful than that which they conceived when they had entertained dreams of liberty and of peace. "And then I had the added pride of finding out by personal observation the kind of men we had sent over. I had crossed the seas with the kind of men who had taken them over, without whom they could not have got to Europe, and then when I got there I saw that army of men, that army of clean men, that army of men devoted to the high interests of humanity, that army that one was glad to point out and say—these are my fellow countrymen. "It softens the homesickness a good deal to have so much of home along with you, and these boys were constantly reminding me of home. They did not walk the streets like anybody else. I do not mean that they walked the street self-assertively. They did not. They walked the streets as if they knew that they belonged wherever free men lived, that they were welcome in the great republic of France and were comrades with the other armies that had helped to win the great battle and to show the great sacrifices. Because it is a wonderful thing for this nation, hitherto isolated from the large affairs of the world, to win not only the universal confidence of the people of the world, but their universal affections. "And that, and nothing less than that, is what has happened. Wherever it was suggested that troops should be sent and it was desired that troops of occupation should excite no prejudice, no uneasiness on the part of those to whom they were sent, the men who represented the other nations came to me and asked me to send American soldiers. They not only implied, but they said, that the presence of American soldiers would be known not to mean anything except friendly protection and assistance. Do you wonder that it made our hearts swell with pride to realize these things? "But while these things in some degree softened my homesickness they made me all the more eager to get home, where the rest of the folks lived, to get home where the great dynamo of national energy was situated, to get home where the great purposes of national action were formed, and to be taken by this great nation which from first to last has followed the vision of the men who set it up and created it. We have had our eyes very close upon our tasks at times, but whenever we lifted them to a distant horizon we were aware that all the peoples of the earth had turned their faces toward us as those who were the friends of freedom and of right, and whenever we thought of national policy and of its relation upon the affairs of the world we knew we were under bonds to do the large thing and the right thing. "Have Looked too Much Upon the Ground. "It is a privilege, therefore, beyond all computation for a man, whether in a great capacity or a small to take part in the counsels and in the resolutions of a people like this. I am afraid some people

SCHOOL BOARD FILLS VACANCY

Geo. P. Black Succeeds Mahlon Hartzell as Secretary.

At a meeting of the School Board last Thursday evening the resignation of Mahlon Hartzell was accepted, due to his removal from town and George P. Black, assistant postmaster, was elected a school director in his place. Mr. Black was then elected Secretary and I. L. Taylor re-elected Treasurer. The following communication was received from the Kurtz Playground Association and action was deferred: "As members of our Public School Board you realize that the Public School System of America has grown out of the imperative need of training children in community life, in American citizenship and for an advancing civilization. "The Kurtz Playground Association realizes that a playground furnishes an added opportunity whereby this three-fold purpose can be helped in its realization. The United States government realized this when she requested the American Playground Association, with which the Kurtz Playground is affiliated, to broaden its work in war time under the direction of the Foshick Commission and to be called War Camp Community Service. This truth was realized by those who passed the late Public School law which requires that hereafter when a high school is built provision must be made for a gymnasium and playground. "As citizens of Gettysburg it is therefore obviously imperative that we, as members of the two organizations, work together in harmony for the betterment of those who in the future shall direct those two great educational forces for community uplift. "Inasmuch, then, as we are working for the same great purpose, we the members of the Kurtz Playground Association urge that the School Board authorize and direct those in charge of its several forms of outdoor athletics to make full use of the Kurtz Athletic Field. That in planning for the practice as well as for the match-games the directors consult with the Association as to the time when the grounds are available, so that no conflict of dates be made with any other group which desire the same privilege which the Playground now offers to the School Board. That the School Board select one of its members to attend a meeting of the Kurtz Playground Association in the near future to present its written reply to this overture."

LIGHTNING KILLS BOY.

WHILE RIDING BICYCLE ON ROAD NEAR McSHERRYSTOWN.

Overtaken by Storm, Bolt Burns Body Along Spine Causing Instant Death.

Claude Winters, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Winters, of near New Baltimore, near Hanover, was struck by lightning and instantly killed last Sunday afternoon on a road near the farm of Irvin Hostetter about two miles above McSherrystown. He was alone at the time. The boy was hired on the farm of Daniel Bair in Union township, this county, and had gone on a visit in the afternoon to the farm of Jacob Forry about a mile and a half distant. A heavy storm was approaching and the boy left the Forry farm to return to the Bair farm. When near the wind-pump on the farm of Irvin Hostetter the storm broke and a bolt of lightning struck and killed the boy who was riding a bicycle. A party of motorists discovered the body lying in the road and at once communicated with neighbors. Word was sent to Dr. George L. Rice, of McSherrystown, who went to the scene and after an examination of the body said that death had been instantaneous. Dr. Woomer, of Cash-town, coroner for Adams county, was notified and after arriving at the scene of the death gave a verdict of accidental death, deeming an inquest unnecessary. The boy had been struck on the back, his shirt was ripped and the body was burned along the spine. The rear wheel of the bicycle was shattered. Claude Oscar Winters was aged 14 years, 4 months and 3 days. Besides his parents the following brothers and a sister survive: Charles, Martin, Elmer, Wilbur, Howard and Clara Winters, all at home. LARGE DEAL COMPLETED.

Ore Company Takes Over 236 Acres in County.

The Cashtown Metallic Iron Ore Company have completed the purchase of three farms of Franklin township, for which negotiations were made in 1916 but conveyances were delivered and placed upon record since July 1.

Harry E. Riddlemoser and wife convey a farm of 137 acres to the company for a consideration of $50,000.

John P. Butt and wife convey a farm of 91 acres to the Company for $25,000.

J. C. Minter and wife convey a farm of 108 acres to the Company for $45,000.

All these farms have good orchards upon them and it has been stated that the crops and fruit that can be taken off these farms annually will pay good interest on the considerations paid for them.

On these farms has been found a good quality of metallic iron ore and the purpose of the company is said to be to install modern machinery at an early date and proceed with the mining of iron ore.

J. H. Leedham, of Reading, is president of the Cashtown Metallic Iron Ore Mining Company and A. E. Hildebrand is secretary.

The three farms have been thoroughly prospected by diamond drills and there seems to be no question that there are rich deposits of the very highest grade of metallic ore. The history of the working of this ore covers a period of nearly one hundred years. Iron ore was taken from these farms by Thaddeus Stevens. Later they were owned by Mrs. Comfort, of Gettysburg, and after the war a great quantity of the ore was hauled to Gettysburg and shipped from here. Later the field was again exploited. The present company has options since 1913 and these options were preserved until the time had arrived for the present proposed operations.

Motor Transport Across Continent.
The U. S. Motor Transport Corps went through Gettysburg on Tuesday noon. Expectations had been that the Corps would reach Gettysburg Monday evening and be here over night but the delay in getting away from Washington changed things.

The train was made up of Company A and Company B and each company was made up of two or three passenger cars, one heavy ambulance, three motorcycles, eighteen trucks and in addition a machine shop truck, kitchen trailers, kitchen tanks and water tank truck. The engineer unit with the Transport Corps was made up of an engineer shop truck, an officer work truck and search light truck. It was under the command of Colonel A. Owen Seaman from Washington to Salt Lake City, where Brig. Gen. Charles B. Drake takes command. The trip from Washington to San Francisco has never been covered by an army truck train.

Brigadier General Charles B. Drake, Chief of the Motor Transport Corps, announces the purposes of the trip to be fourfold: To provide an extended service and performance test of the various standardized types of army motor equipment. To collect detailed data for use in connection with the technical training of the commissioned and enlisted personnel of the Motor Transport Corps and provide an opportunity for extensive studies in terrain observation and needed highway data by the Field Artillery, the Engineering Corps and the Motor Transport Corps. To demonstrate the practicability of long distance motor commercial transportation and the consequent necessity for the expenditure of governmental appropriations to provide necessary highways and to assist in the movement for the continuous improvement of not only the Lincoln Highway, but all through connecting routes in the Union. And last, but not least, to provide an opportunity for procuring recruits for the Motor Transport Service.

LETTER FROM SOLDIER BOY.

FROM ARMY OF OCCUPATION TO FRIENDS IN TOWN.

The German Menace that the All-American Nation Will Have to Watch.

Niederbreitbach, Germany. Nothing is more appreciated than a letter from the States telling what is going on "over there."

I have been getting along very nicely during my stay in Germany. I haven't done a bit of work at all. Sleep as late as I please and stay awake at night as long as I wish to. Can you imagine a soldier saying that? How do you do it? you say. Well! here's the secret. A bunch of us organized a show the first of March and made such a big hit when we put it on that the Y. M. C. A. gave us a hand, got all men relieved from work and booked us in all the places around Coblenz. We finished the Coblenz area and were then sent to our new headquarters at Neuwied. We have been playing out of Neuwied for two weeks among the boys of the 2nd Division. We came to this place this afternoon and will play here to-night.

We sure have seen some beautiful places in moving around. Spring is out in all her glory at present and that tends to relieve our monotony of winter life. The scenery around this place is too grand for words to explain.

That makes no difference, however, when compared to that dear old place we boys call "God's Country." All of us have that same thought on our mind every day that rolls around, "When do we go home?"

The German girls? Margaret Sangster was right to a certain extent in saying that the boys are being won to German homes by their kindness. These people admire us for our generosity and kindness, yet fear us for our dare-devil spirit of persistency and thoroughness.

Notwithstanding all this, I don't believe there's an American soldier over here but what would be willing to open war on the Germans tomorrow and fight harder than they ever did before. At present there is a certain feeling existing that you might term, "The calm before the storm." This is because of the news that the Germans may refuse to sign the peace terms. All this week Yank trucks have been going back and forth night and day heavily laden with ammunition and supplies. Tractors have been busy hauling heavy guns into position in the forests; in fact all preparations are ready for the opening of hostilities. The Germans are scared and don't know what to do.

My feelings toward the Germans is this: I call myself as true an American as ever donned a khaki suit or uniform, and I'm always ready to resent any little insult or statement against the U. S. When the Germans question me about military affairs, my answer is, "I don't know." These Germans openly predict another war in a few years in which they will be victorious. When I get home I shall deem it one of my most important duties to at all times warn people of the German menace; tell them what I know of these people and their thoughts. I shall resent with all my physical force any statement of pro-Germanism, which tends to aid Germany in any way whatsoever.

Words fail me when I attempt to express my utter contempt and hatred for Bolshevism. I think that every Bolshevik agent caught within the United States should be publicly hanged. We Americans must not forget that other nations of the world are jealous of our power, and we should begin right now to lay the foundation of an All-American nation. A person is either for us or against us—there can be no half-way feeling about the matter at all. Any party who is not for the U. S. with all his heart and soul should be immediately expelled from the country and never again allowed to return.

One of the proudest thoughts I have is to know that I am a "True-blue" American—that not one drop of blood in my body is that of a foreigner. My father was a Confederate soldier and I am proud to admit it, for he was quick to fight for what he thought was right. Those years have passed long ago and he has shown his loyalty to the Stars and Stripes twice since then. Once when he offered his services to fight in the Spanish-American War and again when instead of advising me not to enlist, he congratulated me on my move and told me he was proud that I was in to do my share.

Pardon this personal reference but it is only one instance of thousands similar to it, and my point is that we need not fear any other country on the globe as long as we stand together as All-American.

Along the same lines, I wish to state that I have no congratulations and good wishes to offer any American boy who has married a girl on this side, whether she be English, French or Italian. I can't understand it, because I have been around them all, and none of them can compare in any respect with our real American Beauties. An American girl for mine, first, last and always.

GEO. K. TOLAND.

One Million Five Hundred Thousand Pounds of Powder for the Feet.

That is what the government sent last year to make the soldiers' and sailors' feet comfortable and fit for the kind of war they fought and finished.

In Peace and War for over 25 years Allen's Foot-Ease, the Antiseptic, Healing Powder for the Feet, to be shaken into the shoes and sprinkled in the foot-bath has been the standard remedy for all aching, swollen, hot, tired feet, blisters and sore spots and for the instant relief of corns, bunions and callouses.

Thousands of people sent packages of Allen's Foot-Ease to their sons, brothers or sweethearts in the army and navy because they knew from experience that it would freshen and rest their feet, make their shoes comfortable and walking easy. Those who use Allen's Foot-Ease have solved their foot troubles.

Cases of Summer Complaint.

GOVERNMENT ADVISES WHEAT GROWERS

How to Avoid Hessian Fly.

"It should be borne in mind that the most practical and effective methods of controlling the Hessian fly are identical with the best methods of producing the maximum yields of wheat. It does not seem to occur to the average farmer that it is possible for him to fight the Hessian fly by the process of good farming, involving thorough cultivation, good seed, and a rotation of crops. It has been said, and with truthfulness, that outbreaks of this pest are more often the result of poor farming than otherwise. The most serious objection to the most practical and effective method that can be employed to control this pest in the field—namely, late sowing—is that there is danger of so delaying the growth of the plants that they do not become sufficiently advanced to enable them to withstand the winter. The farmer is thus placed, as it were, between Scylla and Charybdis, and must risk the ravages of the Hessian fly on the one hand or the freezes of winter on the other.

"Much of the delay in the growth of late-sown plants in the fall can be eliminated by paying close attention to the preparation of the soil and to the quality of the seed. A thoroughly vigorous wheat plant will not only withstand a slight attack of the Hessian fly but it frequently occurs that such a light attack is rather beneficial than otherwise, for the reason that the killing of the first shoot that is thrown up from the kernel forces the plant to tiller, and in rich soil the result is to produce more grain; but if the soil lacks fertility and has been poorly prepared, this slight attack that vigorous plants overcome is fatal to weak plants, because of the badly nourished condition of the plants. The best advice that can be given is to begin the preparation of the field in the fall precisely as though it was expected to sow at a very early date, but instead of sowing use the disk harrow and the roller, even after it appears to be a waste of labor to till the field further.

"When a finely pulverized, compact seedbed has been secured, the seed should be selected, and this should be done with the point in view that unnaturally shriveled or otherwise imperfect kernels cannot produce healthy wheat plants. When the kernel sprouts it at once sends fibrous roots down into the soil from which to draw nourishment for the young plant, and if little or no nourishment is secured the wheat plants are put into somewhat the condition of stunted calves, pigs or other farm animals which are underfed.

"Wheat plants cannot secure prompt and ample nourishment if the roots must make their way about among clods due to poor preparation of the soil, or in soil that lacks in fertility. The farmer, then, should begin the preparation of his soil with the object of delaying the sowing of the wheat and afterwards of pushing the growth of the plant to the utmost until the beginning of the cold weather. There are farmers who grow wheat continuously year after year but who rarely lose a crop on account of Hessian fly attacks, and even more rarely does the pest originate in their own fields."—Circular 51, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

—Col. and Mrs. John P. Nicholson have returned to their home on Carlisle street after spending some time in Atlantic City.

MARRIAGES.

Martin — Miller. — Miss Carrier Pfeiffer Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Huber Miller, of Steinwehr avenue, and William Martin, youngest son of Senator Wm. A. Martin of Lincoln avenue, were united in marriage on Tuesday at Mechanicsburg. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. H. Sharp and Rev. Jonas Robb, both of Mechanicsburg, and brothers-in-law of the bridegroom. Among those present were Miss Alice Martin, of Gettysburg; Mrs. Hall Sharp, Mrs. Jonas Robb, of Mechanicsburg, and Mrs. Victor Hauskecht, of Harrisburg, sisters of the bridegroom. A wedding dinner for the young couple by Mrs. Robb and Mrs. Sharp followed the ceremony, after which they left on a honeymoon trip. The bridegroom has been the superintendent on the farm adjoining the Martin homestead for several years. The bride graduated from the Gettysburg High School in 1913 and has recently been employed by the H. & T. Electric Co. of this place.

Holm — Legore. — Miss Romola Legore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Legore, of Midway, this county, and Conrad E. Holm, of Davenport, Pa., were married on last Sunday morning by Rev. S. P. Mauger, of Hanover. The attendants were Miss Eileen King and Arno Legore, brother of the bride. They left at once on a honeymoon trip to Chicago and then will go to Davenport where the bridegroom is in business. The bride and groom met last year when he was stationed at Camp Colt, Gettysburg, with the Tank Corps. He went overseas and returning was discharged about a month ago.

Neff — Haner. — Miss Ruth Haner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Haner, of Gettysburg, and Bugler John Neff, of Scotland, Franklin county, were married at the home of the bride on Thursday evening of last week by Rev. J. B. Baker. The bridegroom has just returned from France where he took part in some of the hardest fighting of the war.

Stridonos — Lochman. — Jos. Stridonos, of Waterville, Maine, and Miss Mabel Lochman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Lochman, of near Mt. Pleasant, this county, were married by Rev. J. H. Hartman of Hanover, on Monday. The groom, who recently returned from overseas, is a Canadian, and served in the Third Division in France.

Wolf — Hoffman. — Esther M. Hoffman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Hoffman, of Franklin township, York county, and Howard A. Wolf, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. M. Wolf, of Latimore township, were married at York Springs, recently by the Rev. Paul Gladfelter.

Miller — Tipton. — July 3, 1919, by the Rev. J. A. Miller, at Carlisle, Harvey Miller of Gettysburg, and Miss Maudie A. Tipton, of Biglerville.

—Mr. and Mrs. Samuel F. White and child of Philadelphia, were visitors in Gettysburg on Wednesday.

ONE REASON WHY PRICES ARE HIGH

It's the Fault of the Paper Dollar.

When a man has but $100 in bank and issues three 90-day notes for $100 each, based on the bank deposit as security, the value of those notes soon falls very decidedly. In other words, the average creditor would feel that he ought to have two or even three such notes before he had paper sufficient to equal the value of that $100 in gold that lies in the bank.

This is approximately what has happened with the world's currency. So much paper has been issued in the form of notes, credits, bonds and similar "promises to pay" that its value when compared with actual food and clothing and other necessities has fallen tremendously. We express this same idea the other way around by saying "prices have gone up."

There is no reason to expect rapid retirement of paper promises—war bonds the world over must run for some years yet to come, and private credits cannot be withdrawn soon. Therefore this cause of high prices will probably be with us for some time yet—several years, in fact.

In the case of farm crops, at least, there is another very good reason why prices are high. Many more mouths are to be fed than formerly and this condition also is likely to persist. War devastated fields cannot immediately regain their former productivity. The farmer seems to be secure in the assurance of good crop prices for a long time to come.

WELL-FED WHEAT PLANTS RESIST INSECT ATTACK

Mr. V. V. Clark, county agricultural agent of Marshall county, Indiana, has made some extended demonstrations on the use of commercial fertilizer combined with a good seedbed for wheat as a preventative measure against the attack of Hessian fly and joint worm. He considers the use of proper tillage and proper fertilizers the best method available for counteracting the attack of these wheat pests. Mr. Clark says that his observation is that the well-fed plant is more resistant to attacks by both insects and diseases. Mr. Clark recommends ammoniated fertilizers for use on wheat because it is desirable to have ammonia to force the growth of wheat so that it will be better able to withstand winter conditions.

Soapy Pear.

Little Jeanne was tremendously interested in the patriotic songs she heard at the community singing to which her mother had taken her.

A few evenings later she was playing close by as her mother practiced at the piano. "Mother," she asked, "can you play that piece about the 'soapy pear'? I like that one best of all."

Her mother, knowing the child had confused some words, played various melodies she remembered hearing at the community singing and finally discovered, through this method, that it was the song "Over There" Jeanne referred to. The refrain, "So prepare, so prepare," was the one which to her ears, had sounded like "soapy pear."

ENGLAND MUST INCREASE WHEAT YIELDS

According to the editor of the United States Experiment Station Record, Director Russell of the Rothamstead (England) experiment station says that "the English farmer's task in the future will be to increase his yield." But he further states: "We must strengthen the straw, improve the tillering, regulate to some extent the development of grain and control the pests. Until these are all solved we cannot hope to get much further with increased wheat yields."

The interesting part of this is that so good an authority sees the necessity of still further increasing the English yields of wheat per acre. In this country, although we produce less than one-half the English yields per acre, some of our would-be agricultural economists tell us that we have solved our production problems, have even already given too much attention to production. So long as American farmers produce only about 14 bushels of wheat per acre while England produces for an average of ten years 32.8 bushels of wheat per acre, it is ridiculous to suppose that, while in competition with English farmers, we have no further production problems calling for solution. The great American agricultural problem is greater soil fertility and greater yields per acre.

PRESIDENT WILSON RETURNS.

Some persons do not understand that vision. They do not see it. They have looked too much upon the ground. They have thought too much of the interests that were near them, and they have not listened to the voices of their neighbors.

"I have never had a moment's doubt as to where the heart and purpose of this people lay. When any one on the other side of the water has raised the question 'Will America come in and help?' I have said, 'Of course, America will come in and help.' She cannot do anything else. She will not disappoint any high hope that has been formed of her. Least of all will she in this day of new-born liberty all over the world fail to extend her hand of support and assistance to those who have been made free."

"I wonder if at this distance you can have got any conception of the tragic intensity of the feeling of those peoples in Europe who have just had yokes thrown off them. Have you reckoned up in your mind how many peoples, how many nations, were held unwillingly under the yoke of the Austro-Hungarian empire, under the yoke of Turkey, under the yoke of Germany?"

See a New Day Dawning About Them.

"These yokes have been thrown off. These peoples breathe the air and look around to see a new day dawn about them, and whenever they think of what is going to fill that day with action, they think first of us. They think first of the friends throughout the long years have spoken for them, who were privileged to declare that they came into the war to release them, who said that they would not make peace upon any other terms than their liberty, and they have known that America's presence in the war and in the conference was the guarantee of the result."

"The formulation of the peace is ended, but it creates only a new task just begun. I believe that if you will study the peace, you will see that it is a just peace and a peace which, if it can be preserved, will save the world from unnecessary bloodshed."

"And now the great task is to preserve it. I have come back with my heart full of enthusiasm for throwing everything that I can, by way of influence or action, in with you to see that the peace is preserved, that when the long reckoning comes, men may look back upon this generation of America and say 'they were true to the vision which they saw at their birth.'"

OPPORTUNITY TALKS

Opportunity is talking to you. She says that one hundred and twenty million people of America are more prosperous than ever before.

She says that these one hundred and twenty million people who had the resources and the courage to be the decisive factor in winning the war are all set, with greater resources and greater courage, to win the victories of peace.

She says that these people, instead of owing Europe five billion dollars as they did in 1914, now have ten billion dollars coming to them from Europe.

She says that America has production and distribution efficiency that would have been regarded as impossible two years ago.

She says that America has in development the greatest merchant marine fleet in the world in preparation to carry her products to markets that are waiting for them.

She says that there will be work for everyone, good wages for all, and good profits in every legitimate enterprise.

She says that the greater market at home and abroad will assure high prices for all of the food that can be produced.

Opportunity says to get out and hustle, do your part of the big business achievements, and get your part of the big business rewards.

—Mrs. Hemming and daughter, of Philadelphia are visiting at the home of Mrs. Hemming's brother, Samuel M. Bushman, Baltimore street.

Bids Asked for Road Building.

Announcement has been made by the State Highway Department that on July 29 of the 97 miles of roadway for which bids are asked, that there are two stretches of road in Adams county included in the bidding, being portions of roads previously announced that would be built this year.

One is 13,733 linear feet of one course concrete pavement on the Harrisburg road from Stone Jug to Heidersburg, known as Route 123. The Highway Department had announced that the plan for primary highway to be built in 1919 was from Gettysburg to Heidersburg in Adams county and this second contract will include all work on the road in this county for this year. The section of the same road in York county and Cumberland county has already been contracted for. When these contracts have been completed the part of that road remaining unimproved will be about five miles north from Heidersburg to the York county line, which has been placed in second year work with about five miles of the Emmittsburg road.

The other road to be built this year is two sections of the Carlisle road, 23,249 linear feet, from Kecksburg to Hill 1,1, Higlerville and from Higlerville north to the macadam road. This will give the fruit growers of that section and the market people a first class road all the way to Gettysburg. The specifications call for a reinforced concrete road.

Senator Beales appeared before the County Commissioners on Tuesday and presented the importance of a new bridge over Conewago Creek and the race along the Carlisle road. The question of building the same would have to go before the next Grand Jury. A new bridge is wanted to go across the creek on a straight line and take away bad approaches. Boards were removed from the side of the bridge several years ago so that machines approaching could get better view of conveyances on the other side. The matter will be decided by the Commissioners at an early date.

The State has given out the contract for five bridges to be built by the State in this county, a 30 foot span near Seven Stars to W. H. Murphy & Sons, of Harrisburg, for $4,000.48. Marsh Creek bridge of two 28 foot spans and 24 feet wide to G. W. Ensinger, incorporated, of Harrisburg, for $7,958.34. A 30 foot span over Willoughby Run to G. W. Ensinger, of Harrisburg, for $4,701.41. A 14 foot span west of Willoughby Run to Walter H. Drawbaugh, of Dover, for $1,679.10. These four bridges are on the Lincoln Highway. The bridge in Mt. Lincoln township of Taneytown road, a mile and a half from Maryland line, was given to J. W. Hartley, of York, for $2,325.77. All to be wide concrete structures.

TWO CHANCES TO INCREASE THE WHEAT CROP

Growers May Have Both Profits as Well as One.

Many wheat growers are overlooking two chances of increasing their wheat crop after it is planted and thereby getting larger acre yields and bigger profits. This extra yield and profit is secured by top-dressing the wheat early in the spring with available plantfood, preferably in the form of an ammoniated phosphate fertilizer. This is a fertilizer carrying ammonia and available phosphoric acid that gives the young wheat plants, weakened by the winter, a sturdy start and furnishes plantfood to make the extra gain. When barnyard manure is used it had best be applied as a thin, even covering or top-dressing early in the winter. Whenever possible use the manure spreader for this work, as hand dressing is not satisfactory because it leaves the manure lumpy and uneven.

Fertilizer applied early in the spring increases the crop yield in two ways, first, by making the stalks and heads already started grow larger and by increasing the tillering or stooling. Every extra "tiller" means an extra head. Only a few extra "tillers" to a plant means several more bushels to the acre. If the wheat is top-dressed late in the spring, that is after it has made a good start, it will not "tiller," hence the only chance to increase the yield is by lengthening stalks and heads, but by fertilizing early the chances of increasing yields are doubled.

For spring top-dressing, the broadcast is better than the fertilizer drill. It covers the ground more rapidly and the inconvenience of keeping the drill disks or boxes out of the ground, or of removing them, is avoided. The ordinary fertilizer drill can, however, be satisfactorily used for top-dressing if care is taken to fasten up the boxes or disks away from the ground, or to remove them.

Do Animals Love Music?

I was awakened the other morning by the clatter of a horse's hoofs and a man's voice singing "Killarney," says a writer in the London Daily Express. Peeping through the window blind I saw that a young Midland railway carter was the vocalist, and that his horse, which was harnessed to a heavily-laden van, was following him in a zig-zag fashion, across and up the steep road which runs past my windows. He was not using a whip or touching the reins, and the horse kept his nose near his shoulder, but when the man stopped singing, the horse stopped pulling. I have heard the land girls say they sing to the horses and cows they look after, and that the animals love it, and I know in India some of the hardest labor is done by oxen, driven—not with whip or goad—but by the singing of the native boys in charge of them.

HER FIRST COFFEE CAKES

Wife Didn't Know Much About Cooking, but Would Try Anything to Please Hubby.

The little bride was having her first adventures in the culinary line and it was hard, as she had never been taught the art of cooking. The young husband remarked one day how fond he was of coffee cake, the kind his mother used to make, all fat with raisins and spice and all things nice.

After his departure for the office, the little bride looked through the recipe. It looked easy; you took one cake of yeast, a pint of boiled milk, so much butter, sugar, etc. She decided on a surprise for hubby at dinner that night. The recipe, like many others, was not definite; it left something for older, wiser heads to know—for instance, that the yeast germ is killed if put in hot milk, and it did not say to cool before adding the yeast.

Therefore she mixed the ingredients all at once. Throughout the day she watched it. Each time she looked a sullen mass greeted her eyes. It had not risen any that she could see and would not be ready for the evening meal. She could, however, tell the young husband of her good intentions. He was vitally interested and suggested to wife baking it later, and having it with the morning coffee. A neighbor, taken into consultation, thought perhaps it had been chilled, and suggested placing the bowl in hot water, which was done.

Together, the young couple watched it, but the stubborn disposition was still with it. At twelve o'clock the young husband lost patience and retired, with the remark, "If it were mine, I would throw the darned thing in the garbage can." Not so the little bride; she had been reading too much of waste and conservation, so she stayed up, sleepy though she was, until 1 a. m., when she placed it in the oven, hoping against hope that the baking would bring out its good qualities. At breakfast the coffee cake was served. They tried to slice it, they tried to hack it, but alas, all the tragedies of today are not in the trenches.—Indianapolis News.

GOT THE WRONG IMPRESSION

Grandfather Was Convinced His Pet
Had Joined the Church, and Rejoiced Accordingly.

She is a newspaper woman and her grandfather formerly was a local preacher of church fame. He is very much interested in her religious state and worries because she does not attend church every Sunday night.

The other evening she went to a church to write a story about the new organ, the purchase of which had been made possible by her stories in the paper. So she took grandfather with her, knowing that while he could not hear much of the services, still he would enjoy being in the church.

At the close of the sermon came a surprise for the newspaper woman.
The minister announced: "Miss S., who wrote the stories which brought the money for our organ, is with us tonight and I would like for her to come up in front so that all of us may see her and shake her hand."

Grandfather saw his grandchild advance to the front of the church and also saw the people begin shaking her hand. He had not heard a word the minister had said, but still he had the memory of camp meeting days to inform him of what was happening.
They convinced him that his granddaughter had joined the church and with handshaking the people were welcoming her into the fold. So he did his part. He rose to his feet and began shouting at the top of his voice.

Shelves Are Fireproof.

Not a stick of wood is used in two fireproof houses being built in England as an experiment, says an illustrated article in Popular Mechanics magazine. Concrete and steel are used exclusively, the floors being of joint-less composition with rounded corners, while window frames, trimmings, doors, staircases, and even the cupboard shelves are of steel. The cottages are fitted with every modern improvement and are said to have excelled similar dwellings of wood or brick, both in time and cost of construction.

About the Weather.

In Fairfax county, near the old home of George Washington, a woodcutter without friends died the other day. At the funeral services there was no one to make an address. Volunteers were asked for, and when after a few minutes, no one responded, a newcomer, who hailed from the Pacific coast, rose and said:

"Well, if nobody else has anything to say, I'd like to drop a few remarks on the remarkable health-giving properties of California weather."

Not a Handicap.

The Americans were not handicapped on the western front by their slight knowledge of the French language. As a matter of fact it was definitely proved—to the German discomfort—that the American soldiers could shoot in any old language.—London Tit-Bits.

EASY TO SEE ONE'S BRAIN

Scientist Asserts That All That Is Necessary Is a Candle and Some Perseverance.

"Have you ever seen your brain?"
is not such an outlandish question as one might suppose. In fact, it is quite possible to see one's own brain, according to Dr. Fraser Halle, says London
Tit-Bits.

Many years ago Purkinje started the scientific world by announcing that by passing a candle to and fro several times by the side of the eye, this might be done. The air in front, he declared, was transformed into a kind of screen on which was reflected what he supposed to be a magnified image of part of the retina.

This started a research movement among the scientists of the period, and a controversy began.

Sir C. Wheatstone thought the professor was slightly out of his bearings.
He declared that what the latter had seen was merely the shadow of the vascular network.

Then Dr. Fraser Halle returned to the attack, and stated that he had succeeded in identifying the picture with the representation of the "anterior lobe of the cerebrum."

The candle should be moved to and fro about four inches below the eye and three and a quarter inches from the face. If the movement is suspended, the image disappears. Night is the best time for this experiment, but it can be seen faintly, in any dark place even in the daytime.

Exterminating Pests.

Uncle Sam employs approximately 300 professional trappers and hunters to assist western stockmen in exterminating wild predatory animals from the range country. These hunters have killed 70,713 predatory animals in the last three years, which has resulted in a direct saving estimated at nearly 5½ million dollars a year to the stockmen of the Rocky Mountain section. The total kill consisted of 60,473 coyotes, 8,094 bobcats, 1,829 wolves, 201 mountain lions and 137 bears. The pelts of the animals killed were sold for approximately $100,- 000, which, of course, is of considerable aid to the government in financing the work. In addition to animals killed by trapping and shooting, great numbers of coyotes have been killed by the carefully organized poisoning campaigns conducted by the biological survey.

Submarine Not Yet Perfect.

In spite of the fact that the British have some steam-driven 2,700-ton submarines capable of a surface speed of from 23 to 25 knots, the submarine as a weapon of war is too slow and too blind when it is submerged to be considered a serious weapon of naval warfare. When it can see electrically to a distance of ten to fifteen miles while it is submerged so deeply as to be invisible to the air scout, and when it can steam 20 knots submerged it will dominate the naval situation, says Scientific American.

KNOWN AS WITCHCRAFT TOWN

Old Salem, Mass., Has Never Been Able to Live Down the Much Disliked Name.

Salem is nationally known as the witchcraft town of history, a title which it has been trying to live down for 200 years. Fortunately for Salem, the terror of witchcraft is fading from memory.

Invariably the visitor comes to Salem with the idea of witches firmly fixed in his mind, but the only evidence of their existence that he can find is a tiffin bearing a tiny witch astride a broomstick. Besides buying witch-adorned souvenirs, which Salem provides to meet the demands of visitors, there are other ways of satisfying witch-hunting ambitions.

To a person already keyed to a high pitch by vague recollections of witch days Salem on a frosty moonlight night seems to slip back a century or so into the solemn superstitious little Puritan town, where one must think several times before making the most casual remark lest it be construed as evidence of friendly dealings with the devil.

Over by the cemetery the tombstones of the witch accusers gleam ghostly in the moonlight. It seems plausible that any of those venerable judges of 1692 might glide suddenly into view and stroll with dignity down the street or that Mistress Sarah Good or Elizabeth How should appear and ask sternly if it was your ancestor that labeled her a witch.

Out on Gallows hill, too, there is "atmosphere" undiluted. Here 19 unfortunates convicted of witchcraft met their fate before Puritan common sense overcame Puritan fanaticism.
Gallows hill is a monument to Salem's darkest days.

Caught at Last.

A father said to his pretty daughter one morning:

"What time did you send that young Simpson home last night?"

"Oh," replied the girl, "I don't think it was very late."

"It must have been close to midnight!"

"Why, father?"

"Didn't you send him out the back door and hurry off to bed when you heard me coming in?"

"Why, father, I had been in bed for hours."

"You heard me, then?"

"Yes, you woke me up."

"And you had been in bed for
hours?"

"Ur huh!"

"That certainly is funny!"

"Why?"

"Because when I went to light the lamp I nearly burned my hands off on the hot chimney."—Youngstown Telegram.

Land Women Still Needed.

Women's land work in Britain has not been made unnecessary by demobilization. The women's land army is calling for 51,000 recruits there, as it is said to be impossible to obtain sufficient male labor for the crop work.

BISHOP ALONE SAW GHOST

Heavily Carried Out by Noted Ecclesiastic Is Recalled by a British Paper.

The great Bishop Wilberforce was staying at a great country house. As he took his hostess down to dinner he glanced behind him and saw five couples following, and last of all an ec-clesiastic in a monk's costume who was strange to him.

He remarked to his hostess, "I see you are not superstitious about sitting down thirteen to a table."

His hostess went deadly white, and said, "For heaven's sake say nothing!"

Sitting down, he noticed that only twelve seats had been placed, and a moment after saw the supposed monk standing behind the host's chair. It was not long before he realized that no one but he saw the figure. After dinner the host explained that the monk was an apparition which none but the head of the family, in each generation, had ever seen, and that its appearance always foretold disaster.

The next day the same figure appeared to the bishop in the garden and explained that in life he had been confessor to a pre-Reformation head of the family and had been reading a written confession from a penitent.
Being suddenly called away he had slipped the confession into the volume of the Fathers he was reading. He had died suddenly and could not rest for fear it should be found and the secrets of the confessional revealed.
He exhorted the bishop to find the confession and burn it unread.

The bishop went to his host and said, "I do not know if you have a library. I do not know if there is a volume of such and such a Father on the shelf I name. Come and look."

They looked, found the book, found it an old manuscript, yellow with age, and burnt it. The monk never appeared again. Bishop Wilberforce told the story. But he was a wag, and among friends he never concealed the fact that he himself had invented the entire tale for the purpose of seeing what people would believe if told with a sufficiently grave face.—Manchester

Trees as Aerials for Wireless.

It is difficult indeed to find something really new in radio communication. Things which are hailed as new in the daily press are more often apt to prove merely developments or improvements along well-known lines, and it is in that class that the recent tree aerial tests at Washington fall.
As far back as 1907, experiments were carried out in which trees were employed as aerials. In the recent tests messages were received over quite a distance by means of tree aerials. It was also pointed out that messages could be transmitted through the agency of tree aerials over short distances. However, in view of the remarkably sensitive receiving apparatus available today, the use of tree aerials is no more remarkable than it was back in 1907, with the relatively crude instruments of that time.—Scientific American.
